EDMONTON BULLETIN, APRIL 16th, 1904.

THE NEW TARIFF

Removes the duty on rough lumber; reduces the duty on agricultural implements and machinery from 35 to 20 per cent; reduces the duty on iron by from $3.00 to $6.00 a ton on unmanufactured iron, and makes material reductions on nails and other iron manufactures not requiring a large proportion of labor; leather and cotton goods are very slightly reduced; woolen goods, coal oil, and binder twine, remain as before.
Barbed fence wire is reduced from 14 cents a pound to 7 of a cent a pound. Speaking generally the duties on raw material or rough manufactures have been materially reduced while those on finished manufactures have been reduced very little if any, the principal reduction being in agricultural machinery. The abolition of the lumber duty and the reductions on agricultural machinery and barbed wire are distinctly concessions to Manitoba and the Territories and will be appreciated as such. As far as this district is concerned, however, the abolition of the lumber duty does not affect it, for it manufactures its own lumber chiefly and draws its outside supply from the exporting saw mills of British Columbia. As rails are chiefly used here for fencing as yet the reduction on barbed wire makes very little difference, and the reductions on farm machinery will not be felt as much as in the exclusively wheat farming districts. The reductions in iron duties will affect the whole country, and in the benefits of that reduction this district will share, as well as in the slight reduction in leather and in cotton goods.

The reductions made are more remarkable because they are made by an avowedly protectionist government than by reason of their actual amount. They are a concession to public opinion, given contrary to the avowed judgment of the party in power.
While this does not affect the beneficial result of the actual reductions it deprives those reductions of any guarantee of permanency as long as the government which believes in protection holds office. What has been given unwillingly under stress of aroused public opinion may be taken back again as soon as the approaching elections are over. If the government in announcing their new tariff had announced a new principle by which its arrangement would be governed, the consumers would have some idea that what had been done would not be undone. They would know what course future legislation on the subject was likely to take. But under present circumstances they can only conclude that the reductions made by the protective ministry will only last until the protective principle can be given more full effect.

Had the principle embodied in the reductions been that of a tariff for revenue, or of a tariff looking merely to incidental protection, or even of a tariff aimed to break up combinations, these reductions would have been much more important. But the readjustment that has been made has been with a view to lessen the clamor of consumers on a few points and at the same time as far as possible recoup manufacturers for the losses thus sustained. The idea has plainly been to look after the interests of the manufacturer rather than those of the consumer.
The consumer has been considered only because the government was afraid of him.

The BULLETIN does not think it a good plan to exaggerate the evils which it believes to exist in a protective tariff. Because the tariff is unjust it does not by any means follow that it is ruinous. It believes that the country has suffered more in the past fifteen years from the exaggeration of the evils of the protective tariff than it did from the tariff itself, for it was this exaggeration more than anything else that caused so many thousands of Canadian farmers to leave Canada for the States, to our loss as well as in many cases to theirs.
It should be enough to prove that an injustice exists to have that injustice remedied, or to condemn those who refuse to remedy it.
The farming industry is the greatest producing industry of Canada, and particularly of north-western Canada. In order that the farmer may compete in the markets of the world he must produce cheaply. And in order that he may produce cheaply he must get his supplies cheaply—his groceries, clothing and machinery. It is not necessary that he should get these free of duty. The farmer should pay his share of the revenue and therefore he should pay a fair duty on what supplies he requires. But he should not be compelled to pay more. The former duty of 35 per cent. on farm machinery was a straight protective duty, and the present duty of 20 per cent. is also—in connection with other features of the tariff—a protective duty, and therefore is more than he should be compelled to pay. The fact that the duties on woolen, cotton and leather goods, on coal oil and binding twine remain the same or almost the same under the new tariff should show the western farmer that he has only himself to thank for what consideration he has received, and that if he expects further consideration he must depend on himself to secure it.

GRAZING LEASES ON SCHOOL LANDS.

The following are the terms and conditions on which grazing leases on Northwest school lands are granted by the department of interior:

1. The lease shall be for a term not exceeding five years, and shall be revocable at any time during the currency thereof when it may be deemed advisable by the Minister of the Interior to offer the land so leased for sale by public auction in the interests of the School Endowment, or for any other reason.
The lessee in such case shall receive one year's notice of the intention of the Minister to terminate the lease, but shall not be entitled to compensation for any improvements made by him on the land so leased.

2. The rental shall be at the rate of four cents per acre per annum, except where there is more than one applicant for any one lease, in which case the lease shall be put up for tender at the upset rental of four cents per acre per annum.

3. The lessee shall not break up or cultivate the land included in the lease, and shall not place upon it any structures other than such fences or corrals as may be required for the keeping of his cattle, or temporary stables necessary for their shelter.

GENERAL NEWS.

Herald, Battleford, April 6: Wild geese began to arrive in considerable numbers on Wednesday, but before that date there was very few.

A large export of Canadian horses is, this season, expected. Already a contract for the buying of four thousand by the Glasgow Tramway Co., whose representatives are now up west, has been signed. They have so far bought about half the number and are shipping them mostly by way of Portland, Maine.

A buffalo breeding farm is in existence in New Hampshire, U.S.A., where about 50 buffalo of all ages are in captivity. The experiment of breeding in captivity is quite successful, but not that of crossing with domestic cattle. Several buffalo have been sold to show men at $800 each, and the head of one when mounted brought $125 in New York.

Calgary Herald: "Mr. Smith who visited all parts of the Dominion from the Atlantic to the Pacific last year as one of the English farmer delegates, went north yesterday to take up land at Red Deer.
Mr. Smith believes there will be a large movement from England to Alberta next year as a result of the reports of the delegates which are now being published."

EDITOR BULLETIN:

Sir,—We have all read, with the interest the subject and writer deserves, the extensive article absolute exemptions published in a recent number of your estimable journal over the signature of S. S. Taylor, Esq. I belong to a little group of hard-working and intelligent farmers here who have a regard and respect for the distinguished young barrister and Q.C. But we cannot but think that in the present instance he has taken a somewhat one-sided view of the important matter referred to. When Mr. Taylor enumerates all the manifold benefits from which the farmer will be delarred by his inability to borrow on mortgage, it seems to us, though we won't put in any Latin words, that he is begging the question. The question is precisely: Are these things benefits? Is it a benefit to be able to put up a nice comfortable house, and buy teams and cows and machinery and everything you want, or think you want, with money borrowed at high interest? The question is: Would the farmers of Manitoba be worse or better off than they are to-day if the legislation anathematized by Mr. Taylor had been enacted these ten years ago? We can't answer this with certainty. No one can. We should like the student of Shakespeare who spent some years trying to make out what Lady Macbeth might have been under different influences. But the Manitoba legislators are clearly of opinion that the farmers are worse off to-day than they would otherwise have been, and there is nothing in the article referred to to prove that they are wrong. You lay it down as a principle that the borrower borrows to benefit himself. I contest it. Too often, far too often, he borrows for the sake of the alleviation. Satisfaction and comfort it procures him in the immediate future, and thoughtful of the wailing and gnashing of teeth in all the time to come. Exceptions abound, certainly. But we hold it an axiom that the most useful law is that which benefits the greater number. And for one man who borrows what is strictly needful to him, and what he can without trouble repay, there will always be several who, from the facility of borrowing, will run imprudently into debt beyond their necessities and their means. Frequently they will mortgage every chattel they possess, relying on the next season's crop to straighten them up. And as frequently they will be disappointed. And then? Henceforward they will toil and slave for the benefit of their creditors. Year after year they will drag along with them the heavy burden of their debt. Year after year, at the end of their brow, they will pay the big interest on the undiminished loan to keep the sheriff from the door. (Call this liberty, do you? Then let us live in subjection. Better to be a worm of the street than the vassal of a money-lender. All legislation infringes upon liberty. How is it with the laws against usury and so many other abuses! If I feel like lending you money at sixty per cent per annum, and you have an idea it will be a good thing for you to take it on those terms, why does the law interfere to forbid the transaction? Are we free men, of Anglo-Saxon origin, or did we spring from tattooed and blanketed forefathers? And yet the law is right. Just as it is right to post up "No thoroughfare" on a pathway leading to a precipice. Just as the French authorities were right, in former years, to erect an iron network round the upper platform of the Vendome column, when they found that suicide from off that platform was becoming a fashionable recreation of the Parisian gentry. The comparison may appear overdrawn; yet many of the loaning operations as at present conducted are financially speaking—little short of suicidal.

We may be mistaken, but we believe that the average hard-working farmer will get on better without the assistance of bankers and loaning companies. Of course he wants a little money to start with. He wants to buy his team and cows out of his own pocket; but if he comes in without a dollar, better he should hire out to earn it than borrow it at twelve per cent. He can get his ploughs and necessary implements without a mortgage; the companies do not require it, they simply retain the property of their goods till paid for. So for his seed, it is seldom indeed that an honest and industrious farmer, who owns the property exempted from seizure, or a part of it, will not get his seed on trust. He is good for it, under the absolute exaction system, for he can't go broke. And he will be a happier man all round in his frontier hut than in a verandahed house that he has to pay big rent for in the shape of interest.

We don't wish to suppress credit, even if we could. We know too much for that. We know that it is the groundwork and keystone on which is built up the business of the world. But we think it a splendid thing only for those who are in a position to make good use of it. We believe it will be conducive of advancement and prosperity to any man who can borrow money at low interest, make it bring him in a higher return and not spend more than the difference on himself. But we believe it will prove a source of ruin and desolation to any man who, at the present day, borrows money at a high interest and puts it to farming.

JOHN SMITH,
Farmer.

RESERVED TIMBER.

EDITOR BULLETIN:

Sir,—I would fain make an attempt through your columns to gain an elucidation of what appears to me to be a peculiar inconsistency in the manner of doing business in the Dominion lands office of Edmonton. Two intending settlers arrived at Leduc about three weeks ago, and after looking around decided to apply for entry for two certain quarters in township 50, range 25. On making application at the Edmonton office they were told that the respective quarters were not open to entry on account of improvements or something to that effect. They were also told they could do nothing with those quarter sections because they were wet and swampy. After having another look over the said quarters and learning that they ought to still be open for homesteading they again repaired to Edmonton, but this time were bluntly told that the desired quarters were reserved on account of the timber thereon. I know a party who could have had one of these quarters last summer by paying $20.00—$10.00 for entry and $10.00 for cancellation fees. Since that cancelled homesteads have been secured by paying simply the entrance fee. I think it a little preposterous to adopt the plea that these homesteads are reserved on account of the timber on them, for there have been other quarters in the vicinity of Leduc homesteaded with more timber on them than there is on either of these. There is something radically wrong in this matter. It seems to be rather strange that there should be so many obstacles thrown in the way of parties wishing to homestead on township 50. In other townships south no difficulties of this kind arise. In Wetaskiwin office applicants for entry experience none of these drawbacks. In conclusion I will now make a statement and leave the readers of your paper to draw their own deductions if you, Mr. Editor, are unable to enlighten us. The n.w. ¼ of section 2, township 49, range 25 was homesteaded in the beginning of 1893. It was again offered for homestead in the summer of 1893. Now it is reserved on account of the timber.

How is it thus?

R. J. HUTCHINGS of Hutchings & Riley, Calgary, is in town.

D. McNamara, late of Innisfail, has entered the law office of P. L. McNamara, Edmonton.

MISS MAGEE, late of Toronto, is opening a dressmaking establishment over Mrs. Bush's millinery store.

REV. W. H. BARNES, of Banff, preached in All Saints church last evening. Mr. Barnes is in the Edmonton district visiting the missions of the church of England with a view to more complete organization of the work. A minister will be stationed at Beaver lake and a lay reader at the Sturgeon river. S. C. C. Smith, who has been lay reader at Beaver lake during the past winter goes south with Rev. Mr. Barnes on tomorrow's train.

His Lordship Bishop Grandin, of St. Albert will arrive from Calgary on Monday's train returning from a long visit to Rome. A reception is being arranged on his arrival at Edmonton at which addresses will be presented and the Edmonton brass band will take part. The reception will take place at St. Joachim's church. On Tuesday he will proceed to St. Albert where a reception on a still grander scale is being arranged. The St. Albert orphanage band and mounted men will meet the bishop's party half way from Edmonton and escort him to St. Albert.

Nor' Wester: "Mr. C. O. Swanson, Dominion immigration agent for the Eastern States, arrived this morning with a party of 87 Scandinavians bound for the province of Alberta. These are a remarkably fine set of men, and have been brought from the States of Rhode Island, Vermont and Massachusetts by Mr. Swanson, whose work promises to be as satisfactory this year as it has been in the past. Mr. Swanson and his party, who occupied two coaches, left this morning for Wetaskiwin. They are all well-to-do farmers of experience and bring over $25,000 of capital with them." This party reached Wetaskiwin on Thursday's train.

The April number of the Canadian Magazine is excellent, both in the variety and quality of the contents, and in typographical appearance. Readers of this most creditable periodical will be pleased to find the first installment of a new narrative of travel in the far north, by William Ogilvie, F.R.G.S. The story, which is that of an exploratory survey on the Athabasca, Peace, and Liard Rivers, is entitled "In Northern Western Wilds," and is well illustrated, and full of interesting facts and incidents. "In the Lumber Woods," another illustrated article, by E. C. Grant and Alan Sullivan, graphically portrays the lumberman's life in the shanty and on the river. Lieut. Governor Schultz, of Manitoba, contributes a very interesting illustrated article on "A Forgotten Northern Fortress," telling the history of the huge and still well-preserved Fort Prince of Wales, which looks out with its rubbish-covered cannon on the chill waters of Hudson's Bay. "A Plea for Ireland," by E. Dowseley, is an illustrated description of the scenery around Killarney. In Frank Yeigh's articles on Sir Oliver Mowat appear several portraits of the Ontario Premier, at different ages, from 24 upwards. The Canadian Magazine is published for $2.50 per annum by the Ontario Publishing Co., Ltd., Canada Life Buildings, Toronto.

BEAVER LAKE.

The Rev. W. H. Barnes, incumbent of Banff, held divine services at the Lake on April 8th, the second Sunday after Easter. Matins were said on the west side at 11 a.m. followed by a celebration of the Holy Eucharist. At this service two children were baptized. After these services were over Mr. Barnes proceeded to the home of Mr. Logan and baptized two more children. In the evening evensong was held in the east side school house. Mr. Barnes preached the sermon at both services which was most eloquent and instructive. On Monday, April 9th, seven children were baptized into the church. All the services were well attended and everybody seemed delighted with Mr. Barnes' visit.

PHRENOLOGY.

There was a good attendance at Mrs. Ellis's lectures on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings in Robertson hall. Her Thursday lecture was devoted to a history of the science of phrenology, and a practical illustration of its correctness and the ability of the lecturer was given, the subjects being A. G. Randall, J. R. Brenton, D. R. Fraser, and C. M. Woodworth. On Friday night the burden of the lecture was the practical application of the science in directing the efforts of individuals in the channels for which their natural abilities best fitted them. The subjects of illustration were Mrs. Strang, Mrs. Walker, Mayor McCauley and W. H. Cooper. Mrs. Ellis did a land office business on Friday and Saturday sizing up the mental abilities of a number of the citizens who were anxious to become better acquainted with themselves. On Saturday afternoon Mrs. Ellis lectured on dress reform to ladies only, at which there was a good attendance. On Saturday she again lectured to a large house on physiognomy as an indication of character. Her illustrations were Dr. McInnis, S. S. Taylor, J. B. Spurr, J. A. McDougall and W. Hamberstone.

FROM PEACE RIVER.

C. St. Germain arrived from Peace River on Tuesday by way of the Landing, having come to that point with dogs, and thence with returning freighters. Mr. St. Germain was formerly of Battle river settlement and removed to Peace river last summer with his large stock of horses, cattle and farming effects. He is located on Peace river about fifty miles from Shaftsbury Mission. The past winter was favorable for stock, all of Mr. St. Germain's having come through in good shape and without loss. There has been a great deal of sickness amongst the Indians and settlers, and some deaths. Fur has been plentiful and Mr. St. Germain brought out a small lot. He goes on to Battle river to dispose of his farm there and will return to Peace river as soon as the rivers are open, with the remainder of his stock and effects. He left Slave lake on April 2nd.

SPRING SHOW.

The second spring show of the Edmonton agricultural society held on Saturday afternoon last was most unfortunate in regard to weather. The previous day was as beautiful as heart could wish, and there was every indication of succeeding good weather. Saturday opened fair, but a dark cloud in the west contained a young blizzard which from nine until twelve raged furiously and deterred most exhibitors from making an appearance at the show, although the afternoon was clear and not cold. The number of horses was not nearly as large as last year, but very good animals were shown in each class. The following is a list of the prize winners: Heavy Draught Stallion with pedigree, 1st. Chas. Paradis, "The Ringer" special prize presented by F. Marriaggi. 50 00
Heavy Draught Stallion, 1st. Geo. West, "Gold Finder." 5 00

Diphtheria of a virulent type has broken out among the children in Lethbridge, and it is likely that the schools in that town will be closed to prevent the spread of the disease.
